Destruction, Reconstruction and Prevention is an exhibition dedicated to all the people who suffered under disasters caused by humans or nature. It honors their resilience and mourns their losses. It celebrates as well the World Bank, the institution and its staff. As the largest provider of reconstruction and development assistance, the institution has endured the responsibility to support recovery and to mitigate the impacts of the disasters in more than 600 projects. As people, the Bank's staff has shown over and over its commitment to provide its own expertise and time to those in need.

Since 1998, the Bank is leading the effort to promote a more proactive, developmental approach to reducing disaster risk through hazard management approach which aims at integrating disaster prevention into development activities.

Triggers of catastrophes may be natural, but the impacts these events have on communities are our shared responsibility.

Destruction, Reconstruction and Prevention is an exhibition conceived and organized by the Institutional Art Program of the World Bank in cooperation with the Regional Offices of Africa, East Asia & Pacific and South Asia; the Hazard Management Unit; the World Bank Photo Collection; the World Bank Group Archives & Libraries; the BBC; the National Geographic Channel, and the International Child Art Foundation.

children of KATRINA

27 > 30 October at the Military Club in Sofia, Bulgaria

These artworks were produced by children living along the US Gulf Coast within a week after Hurricane Katrina devastated their homes and communities in September 2005. These works demonstrate children's resilience in overcoming tragedies and attest to the healing power of art. Linking Bulgaria to the United States, this art exhibition is taking place concurrently with the World Cultural Economic Forum in New Orleans, Louisiana. Please visit www.wcefculture.com for more information.

Тези картини са създадени от деца от Мексиканския залив, седмица след като урагана Катрина разруши техните домове и цели градове през Септември 2005 година. Творбите олицетворяват непреодолимата воля на децата да се противопоставят на трагедията и демонстрират лечебната сила на изкуството. Настоящата изложба се провежда едновременно със Световния културно икономически форум в Ню Орлиънс, по този начин свързвайки градовете София и Ню Орлиънс - www.wcefculture.com.
